QUEEN YICTORIA'S LIFE ON THE CINEMATOGRAPH.

At the New Gallery Kinema, Regent street, recently a private view was given of the film entitled "Sixty Years a Queen," an all-British production illustrating the life of Queen Victoria.

"Mr. W. Barker, principal of the Barker Motion Photography (Limited), the producers of the film, explained in a short address at the close of the enhibition that in preparing a pictorial biography of the Queen's life and times the diffi culty had been to decide what to leave out rather than what to leave in. As it is, the film takes over two hours to exhibit, and many of the most striking events of the Victorian era are presented. The success of this enterprise of the Barker Motion Photography (Limited) is claimed as evidence that England has at last reached the front rank among "the world's-film manufacturers. Eighteen months have elapsed since the idea "of producing "Sixty Years a Queen " was adopted. After eight months of research a company of over 60 actors and actresses has been engaged at the Barker studies at Euling, and this staff has been augmented from time to time. The film is nearly 6,000th in length, and the cost of production has been £12,000, of which £8,000 has been spent on wages.

The scenes open with the announcement to the Queen of the death of William IV, and her Coronation in Westminster Abbey. Among the events of the Queen's reign recorded are the opening of "the International Exhibition in "Hyde Pack, incidents in the Crimeon War, including a night attack on Sevastopol in a snowstorm, scenes in the Indian Mutiny, and Dickens in his library at Gad's Hill when summoned to the Queen's presence. Later incidents recorded are General Gordon's farewell and his last stand in Khartum, and the defence and relief of Ladysmith.

MINERS' MAGIO WHISTLE.

Invention to Save Thousands

of Lives.

Professor Haber, Berlin, has invented a whistle which the Kaiser declared would possibly be the means of preserving thousands of lives of miners in the future.

The Kaiser, in a speech delivered last year, called on men of science to suggest a means of preventing the less of lives by explosions in mines. Recently be examined in the Institute of Physical Chemistry at Dahlen, a new device for giving warning of danger from fi e-damp in mines.

It consists of a whistle which tests the composition of the air. When the air blown through the whistle is pure it produces A continuous ordinary whistle tone, but If the air contains I per cent, of dangerous explosive gas a broken and uneven This is caused by the greater frequency of the vibrations in the pipe, and the effect increases in proportion to the amount of ges until the danger point of 5 per cent. is reached, when a succession of rapid throb bing notes are produced, which warn the

PRIME MINISTER'S MEMORIAL

Mr. Asquith on Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

Traits and Characteristics.

Mr. Asquith visited Stirling on 1st inst, and there unveiled a bronze statute of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, his prodecessor in the office of Prime Minister. Before the unveiling ceremony, Mr. Asquith was presented with the freedom

I the Royal Burgh of Stirling, and after it had been performed he delivered an address in the Public Hall, Stirling, on Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's character and achievements. The Prime Minister and Miss Violet

As with stayed overnight at the residence of Sir John Graham at Larbert, and on the following morning they proceeded by motor-car to Stirling, accompanied by their host and hostess. As they were approaching the mining village of Banneckburn four women suffragists ran across the road and endeavoured to stop the car. They were not at first successful, and one of the women then placed herself in a crouching position directly in the way of the vehicle. The driver with difficulty avoided running over her. Detectives who were travelling behind the Prime Minister's car rushed forward and lifted the woman almost from under car, and one of them threw red popper competition which our national SHAMEEN, CAITTON, without delay into it, while another tried to strike Mr offers? A LINE DE JUVENAL But he was also, though I believe he did not take a yeary high degree at Cambridge, a woll-read plantical scholar. remember, by way of illustration-I am not sure that I have not told the story before, but it may bear telling again an incident in Mr. Gladstone's Cabines of 1802. That Cabinet contained in addition to its illustrious chief, quite a number of distinguished classical scholars. and one day a discussion incidentally arose for even Cabinets do not always. keep to the point (laughbor) -- as to the true reading of a line in the Latin poet Juvenal. Most of our big classical gunz word in favour of one reading, while Campbell-Bannerman, almost alone, was in favour of another. The text was sent for, and it was proved that they were wrong and he was right. (Cheers.) romember being somewhat nattled myself. because I was on the side of the maority. (Laughter.) I pointed out to him that the line with which he had shown such an unbanny familiarity was in one of the Satires of Juvenal which are not ordinarily allowed to be read in school. (Laughter.)

What, then, were the qualities which

brought this man who, if he had chosen Wardrobes, Several Bookcases, Deak, might have enjoyed the life of the culgreat political party and to the head of Plants, Garden Seats, Swing. Electric | a Government? If I were to answer. or attempt to answer that question should say, first and foremost, strength and the tenscity of his convictions. (Cheers.) His political faith, not only in its general spirit but in its actual articles, varied hardly at all throughout the 40 years of his public life. This directness-you may almost say simplicity of purpose—and this || clearness cutlook, accompanied as they were an absolute sincerity and complete personal disinterestedness, gave him a quiet, but an assured sense of power which was more and more appreciated by both his political friends and his political opponents as his life wont on. Next to that hould put the singular gift of shrew and penatrating observation in regard to his fellow human beings, whether looked at as individuals or in the mass. If this his characteristic humour was perhaps the most obvious manifestation. There is still, as perhaps you know, as ignorant superstition upon the other side of the Border about the existence, or, any rate, about the limitation of wha is called Scottish humour. (Laughter.) Well, of that superstition if and so far as it still survives Campbell Bannerman was in his day the best standing rulutation. For not only was his humour undeniable, but when he was most humorous he was the most a Scoteman. Li the sense of humour consist, as some people think it does, in a vivid perception of incongruities, few men of ou time have been so well endowed with Your chairman told me last night a little story which I will steel from him, and which I think is a very good illustration of what I mean. Sir John told me that on the occasion of an election here Sir Henry was met on the street by a vote who came up to him and said to him "Sir Henry, I like you very much, but would rather vote for the Devil. (Laughter.) Sir Henry at once replied, without turning a hair, " As your friend In 1903 he was appointed adjutant-general, " A. Bucknill is not a candidate you might just as well vote for me." (Lavagister.) I have spoken of his shrewd observation of manleind, and lastly I would single out as, perhaps, the greatest source of his authority and his lasting strength, his constant and unswerving courage (Cheers.) No man that ever lived was less of a swashbuckler or braggadocio, but when he had deliberately chosen and taken up a position he was unmovable. The enemy might rage furiously, faintand the skies of fortune might wear their worst frown he confronted it with a caim, unwavering confidence which nover failed. And, may we not say that he has had his reward? Men might approve or dissperove of the cause he took up, the policies he tought for, and the creed in which he lived and died; but all recognized that we had him what the country most needed, in its service—a man truo as steel, simple beart and life, a covoted and unselfish pervent of the State: May his memory and the Fangire never lade! (Cheers.) Mr. John Burns, who also spokes that Siz Henry Campbell Bannerman a man who know when to take great risks when duty impelled him to do so, grant of Constitutions to South Africa and that, and that alone, warranted a statue to him. As one who knew the inside by the Martines to get into communication of the particular work, might he say that with our planets Sir Henry Campbell Bennymen could not have done that quite so successfully the present great Prime Minister That he remarkable story of how a man I He I S. balmers

THE KISHI DIVORCE CASE. Appeal Proceedings.

In the Tokyo Appeal Court on Thursday (13th instant) says the "Japan Chronicle of the 18th inst, the first hearing took place of an action broughs by Miss Solma Straicher, a German, aged 57, residing th No. 101 Main Street, Yokohama, against Dr. Kishi Ichida, a ed 43, president or the Kishi Hospital, No. 31, Tsukiji Ryobashi, Tokyo. The appellant seeks to not saide the decree of divorce prenounced. by the Tokyo District Court. The Japan Advertiser states that Miss Solma Streicher appeared in Court accompanied by an interpreter. Mr. H. Sate, her counsel, asked the Court to set aside the decree of divorce pronounced by the District Court on February 24th hat and to dismiss the application for divorces with

The Chief Judge remarked that the judgment was final and conclusive and had been accompanied by the public delivery of documents. He saked what reason there was for cancelling it, but declared that in any case the decree was final by Japanese law and therefore no appeal could be made. Courisel said that when judgment was delivered in the Tokyo District Court Miss Selma Streicher was at Berlin, 8,000 miles from Japan. His client had not yet received.

the text of the judgment. Counsel for Dr. Kishi requested the Court to decide whether the decree was final and conclusive before the arguments were heard and the Judge told documents. The latter requested a Court postponement of the hearing which was adjourned till December 9th.

SCOTTISH LETTER.

November 4. SCOTTIME LEAGUE CHANGE. The long delayed appointment of the Scottish law officers t llowing upon the transfer of Lord Dunedin to the Court of Appeal and the elevation of Mr. Alexander Ute to be Lord President of the Court of Session fulfile the general expectation. The retirement of Lord Kinnear from the Bouch has opened the way for the promotion of Mr. A. M. Anderson, K. C., who as Lord Anderson is created in Senator of His Blajesty's College of Justice in Soutland-a title which combines picture que archaism with sonorous dignity, but only really means a Judge in the Court of Ses-CURRENT ACCOUNTS opened on the sion. Mr. Anderson has been Solicitor-General since 1911. When he had to seek re-election upon his appointment, he was defeated and he has not since had a seat in Parliament. It was for tunate for "the Government that udicial vacancy was available for Mr. Anderson. It relieved them of the difficulty-rare, if not unprecedented in modern days of having the senior law officer for Scotland without a Parliamentary seat, of any immediate pro pect of obtaining one. OF CREDIT are available all over the Mr. Robert Munro, K.C., M.P., succeeds Mr. Ure an Lord Advocate. He has shown considerable aptitude for Parliamentary work, and has gained the ear of the House, at least of the Scottish section. Mr. T. B.

(From Our Own Correspondents)

The elevation of Mr. Anderson to the Bench dauses no Parliamentary displacement. But Mr. Munro will be obliged to seek re-election for the Northern Burghs. The constituency consists of six different towns, -Wick, Cromarty, Dingwall, Tain, Dornoch, and Kirkwall -in five different counties, and between the extremes of the constituency there is a full day's journey. This understood this Sir A. Bignold, who held the seat for he Unionists from 1900 to 1910; will stand aside to make room for Mr. Alexander George Mackenzie, a London actuary. The new Solicitor-General has no seat in Parliament, and it is rumoured that Sir John

Morrison, K C., becomes Solicitor General

in place of Mr. Anderson.

A. Dowar may vacate Inverness-shire. in order to give Mr. Morison an opportunity of seeking election there. In so far as any seat can be regarded safe in view of the present political crisis, Inverness may merit that description. LLOYD GEORGE AND THE DEER PORTER. The Duke of Sutherlan l's reply to Mr

Lloyd's George's charges against the owners of deer forests, by which he offers to sell to the Government 200,000 scres of land in Sutherlandshire at the price of £2 per acre, has excited the keenest interest and controversy all over Scotland. The Duke's offer is not yet put in definite form, but generally the land is described as a deer forest, and to be a mountainous stratch of over 30 miles, ly ng between Tongue and Rogart. Parts of it are good enough for sheep grazing, but on the whole the arca is more suitable for grouse and deer. Other landowners in the Highlands are following the Duke's example. Mr. W. Ewing Gilmour of Glencassley has offered 100,000 Ou Current Accounts 2% per Annue on scres in Rose and Sutherland at £2 per directors of the United Tarkey Red Co. Vale of Leven, says that the land is entirely under sheep and deer, and is only vote any surplus of subscriptions to some Partridge, - Che Rhoo ... suitable for these purposes. Some of the land is between 3,000 and 3,450 feet above the level of the sea, but most of it is about 600 feet. It is stated that is not suitable for afforestation; trees planted by the Duke of Satherland on an adjacent estate 40 years ago-are now only 6 feet high. Cameron of Tocheil is also open to any offer by the Government for his deer forest.

SCOTT IN ENGLAND. Dr. Johnston's gibe that the pleasantest prospect in Sontland in the road to Hingland is shown by the latest consus report be be losing some of its point. The proportion f Scottish natives resident South of the Iword, which was 726 per 100,000 of the population in 1851, gradually rose till it reached 976 in 1881, remained almost stationary during the next two decades, and he now fallen to 893. Barrow-in-Furres is conspicuous for a very high propostion of Souttish born persons. The towns on the rivers Tyne and Morsey appear to offer considerable attractions to Scotsmen but they are notoremarkably numerous in the inland manufacturing towns. The proportion in Lindon is rather higher.

DRAMS AT FUN BALL. The cu tem of dram drinking at funerals in Scotland in not altogether abolished, the custom still holds, it seems, in the Shetland Islands. A cleruyman writes that, when of ficiating at several funerals his first duty was to ask a blessing on, and his second to return thanks for the service of spirits. well-laden b sket of whisky and biccuits was also carried by one of the mourners several miles across the pent-bogs to the graveyard. The church door was left open. and after the obsequies had been observed another glassof whicky was served round the ews. He had attended only one funeral in the North where tea was substituted, and i was openly declared by one old fisherman; as a "diagrace to Sandy's corpse."

THE C NTRAL ARIA EXPEDITION. The new expedition to Central Asia. which Sir M. Aural Stain, the Royal Goographical "ociety's gold medallist, has just engaged, with the support of the Indian Government, is expected to yield results of the greatest geographical and archmological interests. It is understood, according to the "Scotsman," that in a letter which has been received from the explorer by the Royal Geographical Society Sir Aurel, who at the time of writing it was in camp near Srinagar, expressed the hope that he would reach Kashgar, in Chinese Turkestan. some time last month. He had planned to travel by a route which he had not reviously-traversed-and-which-was-still a part unsurveyed, which would take him through the Indus Kohistan and ther across the ranger of the Hindu Kush, south and north of Yasen. The coming winter is to be devoted to archmological research in the desert regions of Chinese Turkestan, after which Sir Aural Stein hopes to extend his work to the easternmost. Tian Shan, and onwards to the desert region lying still further to the East on former expeditions, Sir Anrel Stein is accompanied by two native surveyors. whose services, have been placed at his disposal by the Survey of India. One of these is Rai Sahib Sal Singh, who was Sir Aurel Stein's right hand man on his last expeditions and who did such good work that he was not only rewarded by the Indian Covernment but was accorded the Back grant by the Royal Geo raphical Society in the same year that his leader

PRINCESS LOUISE'S ANNUITY.

The Duke of Argyll's Income-Tax.

The Duke of Argyli appealed before Ir. Justice Scrutton recently against assessment to supertax on the annuity of £6,000 granted to his wife, the Princess M Louise, by Letters Patent Issued by virtue of powers conferred by Parliament on Queen Victoria. The assessment had boen affirmed by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue. The duke contended that the annuity had been granted " free from all taxes and assessments and charges, though he admitted that he had allowed income-tex to be deducted Al from the amount " as a matter of grace." OPIUM SUPPRESSION.

Ir would seem that the present

Government of China are as decided in regard to the complete suppression of opium, as far as it is used by smokers

and eaters of the drug, as ever the Manchus were, and perhaps ever

has just issued another severe order

in regard to the cultivation, importation and use of the drug in smoking,

in which it is stated clearly what are

His Excellency's desire and apparently his determination in the matter. The edict is sept to all the Tutuhs of the several provinces, and they in turn

are instructed once more to advise

their underlings regarding this vexed question. An appeal is made to the patriotism of all who serve in the army, that, for love of country and in

f order to sustain their self-respect, they have done with opium, -lock, stock

and barrel. There is to be no claudestine smoking, for apart from the danger to which sly indulgence will expose

them, there is the further loss of face

which they, as representatives of a great army, should fear even more

further order that all officials must

than mere punishment. There

In no very considerable time, therefore, there is prospect that opium smoking will be a thing of the past. It will be seen from the wording of this genera, order that the President keeps we within his rights, and shows both the proper spirit and real wisdom. It is something that he appeals to the better nature of the army, for like everybody else the Chinese have their better side, and, if appealed to, they will to a greater or less extent respond reason. The Chinese are of course, quite within their rights to stamp out the cultivation of the drug amongst themselves, and to take what steps they deem to be reasonable and effective for that purpose. No objection can be taken to the direction which forbids the officials to endeaour to evade existing treaty obliga. tions; on the other hand, no one will John's Cathedral on December 6 of Mr. blame them for trying by every legitimate means to prevent foreign Hounson. opium from from finding its way into On the general the interior. question there can be no doubt that 10,30 s.m -Auction of Furniture :ab-

TROUBLE IN THE SIKH TEMPLE.

Threatening to Shoot a Jemedar. Three Watchman Charged.

There was a large gathering of Indiana in the first magistrate's ocurt this morning during the hearing of a charge brought against three of his countrymen by a Sikh Jemedar of police, Lal Singh.

The case arose out of a disturbance in the Sikh Temple in Morrison Hill Gap Road, of the managing committee of which the complainant is president, his complaint against the defendants, Hakana Singh, Ganda Singh and Kaka Singh being that they used towards him in the temple threatening, abusive and insult ing words likely to cause a breach of the

Mr. King, outlining the ease against the defendants, said the incident occurred on the afternoon of Sunday, November 2. The Sikhs always had a service on Sunday afternoons in their temple at Wanchai, lasting from roon till three or four o'clock. After the service there was some conversation and then the first defendant got up in the temple and made an accusation against the jemedar, saywhich had resulted in the arrest America of a former priest of the temple The first defendant said I am not afraid; I will shoot you with a revolver like the Jemedar of the Stanghai police. will do it soon." The second detendans then got up in the temple and used words of a similar nature, and the third defendant threatened the Jemedar with n stick. The Jemedar got up, called the attention of the people to the incident, and said he would take proper action on the following day. The three detendants left and went to the No. 2 Police Station where they made a complaint, and the Jemedar went straight to the Central Police Station and made a report upon which action was taken. The parties had known each other for some years and this was not the first time they had disagreed, Mr. King added. The Jemedar bore out Mr. King's statement, adding that before the second defendant spoke he walked round the Sikh Bible with clasped hands. The first defendant was formerly a policeman but was now a watchman.

Mr. Jenkin cross-examined the Jemedar an to the names of the Sikh temple office bearers and elicited the that the three desendants ere mem bers of the committee Witces had praviously been grandent and gave up office when ho went home m leave. THE VICEROYALTY OF INDIA.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

The Times, discussing the ques tion of the Viceroyalty of India, says that Lord Hardinge's official career was never intended to end with the Viceroyalty. It is generally believed that he will in due course return to the diplomatic service, probably as Ambassador to Paris, and circumstances may necessitate his doing so considerably earlier than the end of 1915. There is general agreement that should Lord Kitchener again become a candidate for the Viceroyalty, the post would not again be given another.

Thick Rash with Intense Irritation Great Pain, Itching and Burning: Sleep Almost Impossible. Cured by Cuticura Scap and Cintment.

10. Dover Mansions, Canterbury Rd.

Brixton, S. W., Eng.—"I derived great binefit from the Cutleura Soap and Oint-of the nock and head, causing my hair to come one very much. There was a thick rash with intense irritation, both of which increased as time went on causing great yain, fiching, burning and discomfort, making sleep almost impossible night or day. "I first tried - lotion which, though cooling, did no real good. I then my the advertisement of Cutionra Boan and Ointment and wrote for a sample to be sent. I purchased a large tablet of Cuticura Scap and some Cuticura Cintment and used them regularly as night, bathing the affected perso with the Cationre Step and not water." and then gently applying the Cutiours Dinament with the tip of the finger, and in the morning again washing with the Cuticura Soap and hot water. The attack lasted about three months and was quite cured after using the Cuttours Bosp and Ointment six weeks, and my hair quite ceased to come out." (Signed) Mrs. Panny Wooldridge, July 24, 1912
